

What is claimed is:

1. A whole-body hyperthermia, wherein a patient is subjected to warm bathing while at the same time
5 administering treatment to minimize brain stress and measuring the internal body temperature.
2. The whole-body hyperthermia of claim 1, wherein the treatment to minimize brain stress includes 10 any one or a combination of two or more of the following:
 - (1) using water colored in blue, light-blue or other color as a warm source for warm bathing;
 - (2) shining colored light on the eyes;
 - (3) allowing the patient to listen to sounds;
 - 15 (4) stimulating shiatsu or acupuncture spots;
 - (5) cooling the head; and
 - (6) resolving brain stress, by the action of metal ions and magnetic field, by attaching a biological current adjustor, consisting of two or more metals or jewels 20 of different kinds, to the patient or to a portion of the bed coming in contact with the patient.
3. The whole-body hyperthermia of claim 1, wherein the warm source for warm bathing is water, mud or any 25 other substance having a specific heat higher than that of water.

4. The whole-body hyperthermia of any one of claims
1 to 3, wherein the patient drinks, during warm bathing, any one or a combination of two or more of water, aqueous trace element solution and aqueous solution in which 5 trace elements are copied to potassium iodide water.

5. A whole-body hyperthermia apparatus comprising:
means for measuring the internal head temperature of the patient;
10 means for measuring the internal body temperature of the patient; and means for resolving brain cell stress of the patient.

15 6. The whole-body hyperthermia apparatus of claim 4, wherein the means for resolving brain stress includes one or a combination of two or more of the following:
(1) means for shining colored light on the eyes;
(2) means for allowing the patient to listen to sounds;
20 (3) means for stimulating shiatsu or acupuncture spots;
(4) means for cooling the head; and
(5) a biological current adjustor, consisting of two or more metals or jewels of different kinds, attached to a bed fitted to a bathtub.